

ANOTHER OUTRAGE AT CARBONDALE

Mob of Unknown Men Fire
Into the Home of Tom
Baker--Colored

AND KILL HIS SON

Sunday night about 11 o'clock a mob of between twenty and thirty masked men visited the homes of practically all the negroes in the town and ordered them to leave Hopkins County, giving them 24 hours to do so. They also searched the houses for fire arms, keeping all that were apparently good and breaking the remainder. When the mob reached the home of Tom Baker, they ordered him to come out, but instead of doing this, he made a break for the back door and liberty and made good his escape. This so enraged the mob that they began shooting into the house through the window. Baker's three boys aged respectively thirteen, nine and seven years were sleeping in the same bed, the mob killed the thirteen year old boy and badly injured the nine year old boy. The head of the bed was riddled with bullet holes and the wonder is that any of the children escaped death. Coroner Stevens was called, and held an inquest over the remains of the body Monday morning rendering a verdict, that the boy came to his death from gunshot wounds in the hands of unknown parties. The Negroes have been employed by the West Kentucky Coal Co. and their representative Mr. Wilson was in Carbondale Tuesday having their household goods and other effects to warehouse. The good citizens of Carbondale are indignant at the wanton destruction of life and property by the mob.

MRS. MOLLIE WYATT PASSES AWAY

Monday Morning After a Short Illness of Pneumonia.

Mrs. Mollie Wyatt died at the home of her son, Johnnie Wyatt, of this city, Monday morning at 8:50 o'clock, after a short illness of pneumonia. Mrs. Wyatt was one of Earlington's oldest and most highly respected citizens, and numbered her friends by her acquaintances, and was loved by all who knew her. She was 59 years old at the time of her death.

She was the wife of John Wyatt who died several years ago, and to their union were born two sons, Johnnie Wyatt, of this city, and Roy Wyatt, of Madisonville. Before her marriage to Mr. Wyatt she was the widow Sisk, and there were two children born to her by her first husband, Lucian Sisk, who recently died in Missouri, and Boardie Sisk, of Madisonville.

She was a member of the M. E. Church South, of this city, of which she had been for a number of years.

Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. W. A. Grant at the residence at 12 o'clock today, after which interment took place at Grapevine cemetery in the presence of a large circle of relatives and friends.

The family have the sympathy of the writer and their many friends in their sad bereavement.

MOTHER! IF CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

If Cross, Feverish, Constipated, Give
"California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour. Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

A Texas Wonder

The Texas Wonder cures kidney and bladder troubles, dissolves gravel, cures diabetes, weak and lame backs, rheumatism and all irregularities of bladder troubles, removing gravel, the kidneys and bladder in both men and women. Regulates bladder troubles in children. If not sold by your druggist will be sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. One small bottle is two months' treatment and seldom fails to perfect a cure. Send for testimonials from Kentucky and other States. Dr. E. W. Hall, 2226 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo. Sold by Druggists.

LOOKS BLUE FOR OIL IN WEBSTER COUNTY

Hawesville Company Aban-
dons Well Near Sebree
After Going Down
1,700 Feet

Sebree, Ky., Oct. 26.—The last hope of Webster county becoming an oil field evidently passed away today when the Hawesville Oil & Gas Co. abandoned the oil well on the Shelton farm six miles west of here. This company began this well immediately after abandoning the well at Sebree several weeks ago and had gone to the depth of seven hundred feet with no visible evidence of paying quantities of oil, so today the officials of the company ordered the crew of hands away, with instructions to give up the field, according to reports given out here.

The oil situation in Webster county has been a great disappointment to the people in this

Union County Nut Crop is Unexcelled

Morganfield, Ky., Oct. 26.—The Union County nut crop is unexcelled both in size and abundant. Pecans and hickory nuts are being shipped to city mark-

for 20 cents per pound are now on the market for 10 cts. Smaller ones being 6 to 7 cents. A large number of parties have gone to the river bottoms and hundreds of pounds. Apples and corn are at fine and large yields;

the wheat was unsurpassed.
Union was below par only on potatoes, the crop being small

"POSSUM HUNTERS" Out in Full Force Saturday Night

A band of "Possum Hunters" visited the woods around Earlington Saturday night under the lead of Elgie Goodloe and his dogs accompanied by that redoubtable "Possum" hunter Dennis Vaughan, and several young ladies and gentlemen. Over in Fan Hollow the dogs struck a hot trail and soon had one of the varmints up a tree. In all they succeeded in catching three big fat ones and had a jolly good time. About midnight a fire was made and bacon and potatoes were cooked. The party reached Earlington about 4 a. m. foot-sore and weary, but happy. The affair was given in honor of Miss Hill, of Fulton, Ky., and Miss Lute Baker, of Hopkinsville. The following took part in the hunt.

Misses Margaret and Elizabeth Kemp, Freda Heller, Geneva Huffaker, Mabel Browning, Hazel Fawcett, Kathrine Howard and her visitor Miss Baker, Dolly Banks, Zilpah Morehead and Miss Hill. Messrs Tom Ryan, Baker Fugate, Roy Davis, Mr. Carneal, Perk Adams, Hal Thompson, Edgar Arnold, Brick Southworth, Ralyn Dudley. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Daves chaperoned the party.

Huge Sweet Potatoes

Elmer Hancock, of near Richland, was in town Saturday with a sweet potato that might have been first cousin to a pumpkin. This mammoth potato weighed 14 pounds and was one of the largest ever seen here. Mr. Hancock raised it on Judge John B. Hall's farm in the Richland country and from the size of the place has the right name.

FOREST NOTES

Wireless telegraphy is being used in Canada in reporting on forest fires.

The best excelsior is made from basswood, or linden. Aspen and cottonwood, however, supply nearly half of the total amount manufactured.

The King of England has given permission to have a part of the royal estate placed at the disposal of the school of forestry at Cambridge University for purpose of experiment and demonstration.

William Penn, in his Charter
of Rights, provided that for every five acres of forest cleared
one acre should be left in woods.
Foresters today maintain that on an average one-fifth of every farm should be in timber.

Recent experiments indicate that round timbers of all the pines, of Engelmann spruce, Douglas fir, tamarack, and western larch, can be readily treated with preservatives, but that the firs, hemlocks, redwood, and Sitka spruce, in the round, do not take treatment easily. This information should be of value to persons who contemplate preservative treatment of round posts, poles, or mine props.

A NURSE TAKES DOCTOR'S ADVICE

And is Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Euphemia, Ohio.—"Because of total ignorance of how to care for myself when verging into womanhood, and from taking cold when going to school, I suffered from a displacement, and each month I had severe pains and nausea which always meant a lay-off from work for two to four days from the time I was 16 years old.

"I went to Kansas to live with my sister and while there a doctor told me of the Pinkham remedies but I did not use them then as my faith in patent medicines was limited. After my sister died
I came home to Ohio to live and that has been my home for the last 18 years.

"The Change of Life came when I was 47 years old and about this time I saw my physical condition plainly described in one of your advertisements. Then I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot tell you or any one the relief it gave me in the first three months. It put me right where I need not lay off every month and during the last 18 years I have not paid out two dollars to a doctor, and have been blest with excellent health for a woman of my age and I can thank Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it.

"Since the Change of Life is over I have been a maternity nurse and being wholly self-supporting I cannot over-estimate the value of good health. I have now earned a comfortable little home just by sewing and nursing. I have recommended the Compound to many with good results, as it is excellent to take before and after childbirth."—Miss EVELYN ADRIANA STEW-

From Sickness

"Some of your advertisement of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the Philadelphia paper, I feel like writing you a few lines to let you know how much good this medicine did me a few years ago," writes Mrs. C. E. Lauer of 5726 Vine St., Philadelphia, Penn. "I was sick for four years and could not get anything to do me any good. Had throat and lung trouble. The doctor gave me up. He said I could not live longer than two months, said nothing could be done for me. But I bought a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After taking it three days I was so much better that when the doctor came to see me, he said, 'Why, you are much better than you have been for years.' Then I told him what I was taking. 'Well,' he said, 'it is doing you a lot of good.' After taking several bottles I found myself in perfect health."

How Jim Donnelly Made a Success.

By EVERETT P. CLARKE

Jim Donnelly, agent at a small suburban railway station, not seeing promotion where he was, asked to be transferred to some more promising position. The system was a long one, penetrating into what were then the backwoods of North America. The company needed men on the frontier, but unfortunately those positions were so unattractive that the employees there could not be made to hold their places. Jim was told that he might have a passenger train in this region, but was advised that the people traveling there were hard to manage, and it was feared that he would give up the job after learning the conditions.

Jim had commenced railroading as a brakeman. The salary of conductor was much better than that of agent at an inferior station, and he decided to accept the position. Another inducement was that if he succeeded in running his train through the lawless district with regularity he would be advanced to a higher position.

The main trouble Jim's predecessors had experienced was collecting fares. The people of the country made all sorts of excuses for not paying their way, and if the conductor tried to put them off the train they would make a fight. One conductor had been killed, another severely wounded, and others had been too frightened to insist on getting the fare. All this was explained to the applicant.

Jim thought the matter over and made up his mind that he would fight his way to a mastery of the situation. He would not undertake the job without seeing it through. The fights the conductors had experienced were with individuals, and so long as he was not called upon to fight several men at once Jim saw no reason why he should not stand as good a chance as the other fellow, though he was not a large man nor especially muscular. He was quite ingenious and relied on his thinking powers to provide ways of collecting fares.

Jim had been running his train several days without trouble when a wild looking man got on at a wilder station, and when Jim asked him for his fare the passenger, feeling through his pockets, finally took out a dirty paper on which he had himself written a pass. Jim handed it back to him with the laconic remark, "No good." The man began to berate the conductor with his tongue, for insulting him, at the same time putting his hand to his hip for his revolver. Jim put his hand into his outside coat pocket and, pulling out a rubber bulb, repeated his request for the fare. The man was getting his revolver in position for a draw when Jim placed the bulb before the rascal's face and, pressing it, filled his eyes with red pepper.

There was a howl, the passenger putting his hands to his eyes. Jim, taking advantage of his blindness, made a grab for his revolver and secured it. Then, pulling the bell rope, he took the man by the collar and hustled him to the door, giving him a kick as he dropped him off the train.

The next man who refused to pay his fare was a countryman, who relied on his muscle to protect him from being put off the train by the conductor. The fellow was certainly very strong and prided himself on being able to take care of any man without the use of arms. When Jim asked him for his fare he searched for his ticket or pretended to do so, then said that he had lost it. Jim, who understood the man's game, passed on collecting. When the train reached the next station he got out, went to the baggage car, took a new punch out of a bag, and when the train started on went through the cars again. Coming to the man who had lost his ticket, he told him that he must pay his fare or get off the train, whereupon the passenger told him that if he was strong enough to eject him he was welcome to do so.

Quick as a flash Jim gripped the man's nose with his punch, which held by means of a couple of sharp projections. The nipped man fought like a tiger, but every time he struck a blow Jim pressed the nipper, and in a very few minutes his prisoner ceased to struggle. Jim pulled the bell rope, but before the train came to a full stop threw his prisoner into a ditch beside the road.

Stories of the conductor's novel methods of putting off travelers who refused to pay their fare were spread broadcast by passengers who witnessed them and lost nothing by repetition. The countrymen along the line were used to fighting with their fists or their revolvers and were entirely put out of their reckoning by such unprecedented methods of warfare. It required but these two instances to stop the refusal to pay fares, for after the second ejection no one else cared to take the risk of running up against some new plan of the conductor of accomplishing his purposes.

Meanwhile the railroad was civilizing the people who lived beside it. A respect for law and order was creeping in, and public sentiment was turning against the carrying of weapons. In other words, the people were becoming a peaceful farming community. Jim Donnelly's success in collecting fares was noted in the general offices of the railroad company, and one day he received the appointment of division superintendent.

The country through which the line passes is now thickly settled, and Mr. Donnelly is vice president of the road.

The Most Extraordinary Moving Picture Production of the Times

Can You Find the $50,000 Photographs?

Here's how thirty feet of celluloid cost $50,000.

When the moving picture action for Louis Joseph Vance's new and sensational novel, "The Trey O' Hearts," was being outlined something happened.

The producer pointed out seven places in the novel that he claimed could not be portrayed in pictures.

But they were.

It only took thirty feet of film to do it, but it cost $50,000 to get the negatives!

See if you can find these situations in the pictures.

They are just one of the many things worth looking for in—

The Trey O' Hearts

It is the most extraordinary picture production ever made, and will probably never be beaten and seldom if ever equaled.

It cost the Universal Film Co. $200,000 to produce the reels showing the hundreds of sensational adventures, and depicting in detail the action in this remarkable story.

The First Kiss

Probably the greatest surprise in the world to a girl who is kissed for the first time is to find there is absolutely no taste to it—Exchange.

No taste to it? Well by the hen feathers on Cupids dart, the editor of that paper must be an old fossil deaf, dumb and blind in his palate. Those who have tried it tell us that the first kiss tastes like the doubled distilled essence of wild honey spread thick on a generous slice of home made light bread covered with golden butter; that it's taste resembles a sip of nectar brewed by the gods and served in a dew covered honeysuckle blossom.

Way back down the dim vistas of the long gone past before we had lost our hair and had a cinch on the beauty prize, the prettiest girl in the world told us with her own little rose bud mouth that the first kiss felt like a flock of birds of Paradise fluttering out each ear and pouring out a liquid melody of song that would shame the angels.

No taste to the first kiss? By all the gods that dwell on high Olympus, it would make a cigar store Indian's hair curl up into flutters marcel waves and his toe nails quiver in ecstatic bliss.
